Weather Photo Contest

Meteorological Service of Canada Prairie and Northern Region

Hit us with your best weather shot! And enter to win a VHF-FM Weatheradio or a 2003 Weather Trivia Calendar!

If you have a photo depicting Canadian weather, you are invited to submit it to our photo contest.

Winning photos will be selected by a panel of Environment Canada meteorologists, on the basis of how well they illustrate some aspect of Canadian weather. A winner and a runner up will be chosen each month, until March 31, 2003. Each winner will receive a VHF-FM Weatheradio valued at $50. Runners up will receive the 2003 Canadian Weather Trivia Calendar. Winning photos will be featured on Environment Canada's Prairie and Northern Region Green Lane website.

While all photos are welcome, only those taken by amateurs and that are previously unpublished are eligible for prizes. A gloss finish is preferable for the photos. If you are submitting a digital photo, please send a high resolution (300 dpi or more if possible). All photos submitted to Environment Canada will be added to our photo collection and may be considered for future use in brochures, displays, posters and other educational and non-commercial purposes. Any future use of the photos by Environment Canada will include a photo credit indicating the source of the photo.

The photo contest is open to all residents of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, N.W.T. and Nunavut, excluding employees of Environment Canada and their immediate families. Photos will not be returned.

To enter the photo contest, obtain and complete form, sign and send it, along with your photo to:

Pre-spring Groaners

Two hydrogen atoms walk into a bar. One says, "I've lost my electron." The other says, "Are you sure?" The first replies, "Yes, I'm positive..."

An invisible man married an invisible woman. The kids were nothing to look at either.

Two aerials meet on a roof, fall in love, get married. The ceremony wasn't much but the reception was brilliant.

Two cows are standing next to each other in a field. Daisy says to Dolly, "I was artificially inseminated this morning." "I don't believe you," said Dolly. "It's true, no bull!" exclaimed Daisy.

Saskatchewan Naturally Magazine Photo Contest 2003

The new theme for the next photo contest is "Saskatchewan at Work". Details are in the Spring issue of Saskatchewan Naturally.

The contest challenges you to find the scene, the person or the activity that sums up working Saskatchewan best and get it on film. Computers or combines, fish nets or fibre optics - what is "Saskatchewan at Work" for you.

Category A: 35 mm SLR 8" X 10" print
Category B: Point & Shoot or Digital 4" X 6" print.

Deadline: October 1, 2003.

Spring Valley Workshop by Courtney Milne

May 24-31, 2003

For the first time, join Courtney at one of his favorite prairie haunts: Spring Valley Guest Ranch near Ravenscrag in southwestern Saskatchewan. Courtney will lead you on a selection of photo outings through the Valley of Hidden Secrets, including Eastend, the Frenchman River Valley, the Cypress Hills Provincial Park, and the celebrated Old Man on His Back Nature Reserve, the subject of Courtney's latest book. This workshop will include daily assignments, E6 film processing, slide critiquing, and inspirational multi-media sequences.

Accommodation and all meals will be provided by the staff of the Spring Valley Guest Ranch and the entire facility will be ours for the week to enjoy a fully restored 1913 character guest house with gourmet food, log cabins, camping, a multitude of animals, and maybe some old fashioned country-western hoedown music, hay rides, and a pitchfork BBQ — with all the charm of spring on the prairie — peruse their website at www.SpringValleyGuestRanch.com

Local color includes working ranches as well as "ghost-town" villages, 60 million year old fossil beds of the White Mud Pits, the T-Rex Museum and home of "Scotty", early 19th century history of the RCMP, the 1878 encampment of Chief Sitting Bull as well as many historical sites of the Cree and Blackfoot, and the highest point of land between the Appalachians and the Rockies.

Workshop Tuition: $795 + GST = $850 (film and processing charges not included)

Everett Baker: Photographer of Everyday Life

Everett Baker is a name I've come across many times in gathering photos for a research project I'm currently working on. His wonderful colour photos show up in many books about Saskatchewan, and at the Saskatchewan Archives. Recently I came across a short profile of Baker written by Finn Anderson, an Executive Director with the Saskatchewan History and Folklore Society (SHFS), that sheds some light on Baker's life.

Everett Baker was born in Minnesota in 1893, and settled in Aneroid, Saskatchewan in 1916. He first sold books from farm to farm, but eventually began farming in the Aneroid district. He also became actively involved in the cooperative movement, and worked as a field man for the Wheat Pool from 1935 until his retirement in 1957.

Sometime around 1939 Baker began photographing the everyday scenes he encountered as he traveled around. He used the recently created Kodachrome slide film for his work, and he had an unusual ability to get people to be themselves in front of his camera. This combination has left us a legacy of surprisingly colourful images showing people going about their everyday lives, in contrast to many of the photos held at the Archives. In 1957 he became the first president of the newly formed Saskatchewan History and Folklore Society.

According to Anderson, it's not known how many images Baker created. Just before he died in 1981 Baker donated 10,000 images to the Cooperative College of Canada. This collection eventually found its way to the SHFS in Regina. Some of these images have been copied by the Archives to augment its collection of images documenting life in Saskatchewan in the 1940s and 50s. Anderson also notes that Baker was meticulous in providing notes on each slide jacket giving the date, location and a brief description of each image taken. Baker's careful work has been a boon to me as a researcher, but as an amateur photographer I have a long way to go in matching his photographic abilities and his careful record-keeping.

- Bill Armstrong.

There is a display of 65 prints exhibiting some of the thousands of Everett Baker slides in the Dunlop Gallery at the main library downtown. The exhibition will run from March 7 to April 9, 2003.

Moose Jaw Camera Club Loses Prominent Member

Catherine Letkeman passed away on December 24, 2002 following a brief stay in the Moose Jaw Union Hospital. Catherine was born in Swift Current in 1932.

Altogether, she spent 42 years as an educator, teaching in Swift Current, Herbert and Chaplin areas before coming to Moose Jaw in 1969. She worked as a Language Arts Consultant in the Public and separate School Systems until her retirement in 1995.

Catherine served as a member of the Wakamow Sportsman's Centre, the Education committee, and was involved in Festival of Words, Nature Moose Jaw, the Moose Jaw Camera Club and the Prairie Region of Photographic Arts. She was involved in many other community activities during her life in Moose Jaw.

Catherine has travelled much of Canada and Europe. In Saskatchewan, her favorite place was Buffalo Pound Provincial park for picnics and photography of birds and animals.

She received the Moose Jaw City Honours Award on February 22, 2002 and the Queen's Jubilee Medal a week prior to her passing.

Catherine's passion for photography was often displayed with here winning entries in competitions. She was well known by members of the Prairie Region of Photographic Arts.

Terry Graham Contributes to Saskatchewan Naturally Magazine

Club member, Terry Graham recently wrote a story with photographs titled "Wind Riders" which was featured in the The Saskatchewan Naturally spring 2003 magazine. Terry demonstrates his passion for both the sport and photography with some high impact action photos in this well done article.

His story is not so much about windsurfing at Regina Beach during the 2002 Provincial Windsurfing Championships on the Labour Day weekend, but about a mishap which suddenly changed the course of Terry's life forever.

Terry was surfing about a kilometre from shore when he took a bad tumble. He immediately knew something was wrong, feeling winded and in pain. Terry was going into shock as he headed for shore, collapsing as he reached the shore. Fortunately, a fellow surfing colleague was a medical doctor and attended to him immediately.

Terry was rushed to a hospital in Regina where two CAT scans a few hours later, determined he had a badly ruptured spleen. But even worse, something more insidious was revealed; lymphoma, a form of cancer. Only hours earlier, Terry had been sailing across the wind whipped waters of Last Mountain Lake. Now he was to endure several months of recovery and six chemotherapy treatments. He still has more treatment hurdles to make, but is optimistic about a full recovery. Today with the support of family and friends and a strong will to get back on the surf board again, Terry is looking forward to the 2004 Canadian National Championships and yes, more action photos of his favorite sport.

Information about the Saskatchewan Wind Surfing club maybe found at their web site: <http://www.sasksail.com/swc.htm> or contacting Terry Graham at windancer@sk.symaptico.ca
